

BECKER CHARGES BIAS TO WHITMAN IN HIS LAST FIGHT

Will Soon Ask United States
Court for Writ of Error.

THEN HABEAS CORPUS.

Lawyers Plan Denunciation of State's Conduct of Trial.

Ex-Police Lieut. Charles Becker will have one more day in court. It has been decided by his attorneys that even if their application for a writ of error is denied by the United States judicial authorities authorized to issue it, a Federal writ of habeas corpus will be sued out. The records of the case will then be brought before the United States Supreme Court and the case will again be threshed out.

W. Bourke Cockran has been at work for the past few days on the application for the writ of error. He has steadfastly refused to disclose the grounds on which he will charge Becker's constitutional rights have been violated, but it was learned today that his application will be a scathing denunciation of the conduct of the prosecution's case against Becker.

The main contention will be that a few days before the second trial a statement was given out from the District Attorney's office, with the stipulation that it appear in the papers as if it had come from a prisoner in the Tombs, charging that a member of Becker's family had tried to bribe witnesses for the people. The man who handed out this statement, a former official in Whitman's office, will be subpoenaed, it is said, and asked what his instructions in connection with the statement were.

The allegation will be made that through this statement and others of a similar nature there was a systematic effort to bias the public from which the jury was drawn.

Falling in the writ of error, the writ of habeas corpus will be immediately demanded.

YOUNG MORGAN TO BE HIS FATHER'S PARTNER

Junius Spencer Morgan Goes to Work in J. P.'s Office After
Course in "Stamp Licking."

The report that Junius Spencer Morgan, eldest son of J. P. Morgan, is soon to be made a partner in the firm of J. P. Morgan & Company, was strengthened today by the appearance of young Morgan at his father's office, where, it is stated, he is to become a regular member of the office force.

For the last year young Morgan has been receiving training in the banking business in an office in Boston, although his father declared recently that "Junius was only licking stamps and sharpening pencils" there. His preliminary education has apparently been completed, however, and he is now ready to take up the reins of business.

WHAT EVERY WOMAN SHOULD KNOW!

*How to Keep Well, Keep Strong and Keep a Perfect

Six Weeks' Course of Exercise and Diet for Women
Readers of The Evening World, Arranged by Pauline Furlong, Author of "Beauty Culture at Home."

To-Day's Illustrated Lesson Shows How to Do
Some New Waist Exercises to Attain Grace and Poise—"Mountain Climbing" for Health May Be Performed in New York.

Because of her perfect physical proportions, Pauline Furlong has been named the "American Venus." She is the author of "Beauty Culture at Home," and is an authority on all questions of woman's physical well-being. She will give a course of lessons to the women readers of The Evening World this summer on "How to Make Yourself Well and Strong and Preserve Your Figure."

LESSON VIII. By Pauline Furlong.

There are many summer sports which are as helpful to the woman below par physically as they long ago proved themselves to the man in like condition. And as I cannot tell you too often, the stout, apparently robust woman is very often, if not always, in poor health.

After an experience of several years, during which I was in a position to observe the physical condition of hundreds of American women in every rank in life, I can say without exaggeration that nine out of every ten of the women of this country have neurasthenia in one form or another. The fat woman is one of the most frequent sufferers from it. The mere fact that she is not inclined to be fidgety or excitable is no proof that her nerves are in a healthy condition. Poisons are produced in the system by overfeeding that has extended over a considerable period of time, and one of the pathological effects of these poisons is a sensation of indolent contentment.

OBESITY IN WOMEN PRODUCES MANY AILMENTS.
It is easy to show that something is likely to be the matter with the fat woman's nerves. Their nutritive centres are in the muscles. If the latter are flabby and distinctly under-developed, as is the case with most stout persons, then the nervous system is impeded in its efforts to function properly. It no longer controls the muscles as it should, or, through them, the body.

But there are other ailments besides disordered nerves from which the obese person is in danger. Poisonous acids and other substances are formed in the blood, which bring about unnatural contractions and expansions of the blood vessels and, ultimately, structural changes. Next is likely to come a derangement of the digestive system. Among other physical ailments which may be expected are liver and kidney complaints, apoplexy, gout, dropsy and anaemia.

Therefore you perceive that it is your hygienic duty to reduce, if you are overweight, and no mere matter of vanity. Study again the little table of normal heights and weights which I reprint to-day.

5 feet.....105 pounds.
5 feet 1 inch.....110 pounds.
5 feet 2 inches.....115 pounds.
5 feet 3 inches.....120 pounds.
5 feet 4 inches.....125 pounds.
5 feet 5 inches.....130 pounds.
5 feet 6 inches.....135 pounds.
5 feet 7 inches.....140 pounds.

If your height and your weight do not conform to the proportions established in this table, something is the matter. If you are not already busy with the exercises which I am describing and picturing for you daily in The Evening World, begin to-day. Send a two-cent stamp for the measurement chart printed at the beginning of the course, June 28 and June 29, and lose no time in working off your surplus pounds and inches. There may be two opinions—although I think there is only one—as to a woman's duty to be as beautiful as possible—but no one will deny that she ought to be as well as possible.

However, I began to tell you something about the efficacy of sports as reducers. Yesterday I recommended tennis and reminded you that in the city or its immediate suburbs plenty of courts may be found. Those who are unable to spend their summer at some high priced resort may yet find opportunities for wielding the racket at least as often as once or twice a week.

HOW ONE MAY GO MOUNTAIN CLIMBING IN NEW YORK.
Another splendid aid to health and slenderness—shall we not say healthy slenderness—is mountain climbing. When you climb with the idea of taking off flesh you should nevertheless regard each ascent as a pleasure. Then you will take each step briskly and cheerfully, bringing into play the hip muscles and springing forward upon the balls of the feet. Flooding is good for neither the body nor the mind.

"But we are not in the mountains; we are in New York, and we must stay there all summer!"

I seem to hear this indignant chorus from the girls and women with small incomes whom I am particularly desirous of helping. It is just as you say, but, from the point of view of reduction, there is plenty of climbing right here in New York that is just as good as mountain climbing.

The stout woman, if she will, may make a healthful sport of climbing upstairs. It is a sport which may be practised in every apartment house, every tenement house, every shop, every public building in New York. Rightly performed it is healthful, invigorating and even pleasurable. And it costs absolutely nothing.

To make a sport of stair-climbing be careful to touch each step with only the ball of the foot—not the heel—whether you are ascending or descending. Ascend lightly. Keep the chest raised and the waist straight, bending at the hips and making the chest feel the light, buoyant impulse of ascent. Breathe deeply, inhaling through the nose. The mouth should be closed during and immediately after the ascent—in fact, until you know that your breathing is normally quiet. Do not talk when you are climbing stairs.

When you go downstairs, the only bend in the body should be at the knee, and, as I have said, the heel of the foot should never touch the stair. As some one has observed, the much-abused stairs may become stepping-stones to health for the tired business woman, the teacher, the housewife. And the woman who practices the exercise or sport of stair-climbing every day will take off more flesh than the woman who climbs a mountain once or twice a year.

NEW WAIST EXERCISES PRODUCE GRACE AND POISE.
It is another set of waist exercises which I recommend to your attention to-day. In No. 1 you assume position, what may be called horizontal position, to differentiate it from the vertical first position which I showed a few days ago. With chest and chin up, shoulders back and abdomen in, you hold the wand with outstretched hands so that the length of it is parallel to the floor. Your feet should be about eighteen inches apart.

In exercise No. 2, keeping your body straight, swing the wand swiftly overhead and return to position. Hold it near either end, and lift your arms as high as they will go. Chin, chest, shoulders, abdomen, knees apart. In exercise No. 3, keeping your body straight, swing the wand swiftly overhead and return to position. Hold it near either end, and lift your arms as high as they will go. Chin, chest, shoulders, abdomen, knees apart.

Even though the wand be a light one, as you lift it overhead you will feel the pull on arm and shoulder muscles. This movement exercises arms, shoulders and chest. The muscles are alternately tensed and relaxed, a result for which physical instructors always strive. The bust is reduced by this upward movement of the arms which stretched muscles.

Even at the beginning you should be able to repeat this exercise at least ten times. The third one pictured below is a little more difficult. To do this you must swing the wand overhead and then, instead of bringing it back to its original position, bend the body at the hips and with the wand touch the lowest part of your legs that you are able to reach.

At the beginning of this exercise you will very likely find yourself unable to bring the wand below your knees, which must not be bent. But if you persevere you will reach your knees, then your ankles and finally your instep. This exercise takes the flesh off your chest, arms, back, abdomen and legs, and, like all the bending exercises, conduces to grace and poise by making your joints more supple.

To-morrow I have for you a brand new exercise, different from anything heretofore shown.

EX-JUDGE DISBARRED.
Simon Hahn Found Guilty of Unprofessional Conduct.

Simon Hahn, a Judge in the First Criminal Court of Newark until Jan. 1, to-day was declared guilty in Newark of unprofessional conduct by Chancellor Walker and his debarment from practice in the Chancery Court directed.

The charge followed the settlement of an alleged divorce suit which Charles Peaker, a former negro boxer, it was claimed, retained Hahn to bring against his wife, Bertha. Charles Peaker, a wealthy broker, nearly seventy years of age, who was named in the case, alleged, gave Hahn $25,000 of this he gave Peaker only $2,000.

FIRE IN SHOP; TAILOR HELD.
Jacob Goodman Put Under $5,000 Bail for Examination.

Benzine and fire crackers found scattered about the tailoring shop of Jacob Goodman, at No. 155 East Seventy-fifth Street, after a slight fire there on Monday night led to his arrest on a charge of arson. He was held to-day for examination in $5,000 bail by Magistrate Barlow in the Yorkville Court.

It was learned he had moved four suits of clothes and an insurance policy just before the fire. He says the fire crackers exploded accidentally and caused the fire.

WEDS TO-DAY BRIDE HE LOST TO RIVAL MANY YEARS AGO

George A. P. Oliver Wins Florence Hill-Buysse, Whom He Courtied in Her Girlhood.

ENGAGEMENT BROKEN.

Then St. Louis Belle Married
Teacher, But Divorce
Was Outcome.

A pretty romance of more than fifteen years culminated in the Old Presbyterian Church on Fifth Avenue at Twelfth Street, when at 11:15 o'clock this morning Mrs. Florence Hill-Buysse became the bride of George Augustus Prince Oliver. Only six persons were present at the ceremony, including the Rev. James H. Hoadley, who officiated.

The bride is the daughter of the late Ewing Hill, head of the Western Advertising Company of St. Louis, in which city she spent the greater number of her girlhood days. Her family has long been prominent in the Missouri centre, socially and financially. Mr. Oliver formerly lived in St. Louis, but was until a year ago at the head of a realty company of Chicago bearing his name. Since then he has been living in New York at the Spencer Arms, No. 140 West Sixty-ninth Street.

In St. Louis, when Mr. Oliver was a rising young business man, he courted Miss Hill. They became engaged and the date of the wedding was discussed when something occurred to part them. Neither will say, at this late day, who was to blame, or whether the sundering of their engagement was due to circumstances for which neither was responsible.

Miss Hill married Armand Buysse, a teacher of languages. Mr. Oliver wouldn't say to-day whether Buysse had been her instructor. He merely said the marriage was not a happy one and that his wife never loved the teacher. After the wedding Mr. Oliver left St. Louis and went to Chicago, where he prospered in the real estate business.

In the years which have intervened the real estate man never forgot his first and only love. The bride did not look her forty years this morning and appeared very happy. She had lived in St. Louis all her married life, but St. Louis had forgotten Mr. Oliver. Two weeks ago Armand Buysse secured a divorce from his wife on the ground of desertion, the action being uncontested by the wife. Mr. Buysse, in St. Louis, will say nothing of the causes which led to the divorce.

The bride was attended by Miss Larimore at the church, and the groomsmen were Clarence and Joseph Phillips of Philadelphia and Thomas Ellwood Lukens of New York. The doors were closed and the public barred.

A wedding breakfast at Sherry's followed the ceremony. Then Mr. and Mrs. Oliver left for an extended honeymoon after which they will live at Mount Vernon Cottage, Briarcliff.

FREED BY DIVORCE SHE MARRIES SUITOR OF GIRLHOOD DAYS.

MRS. FLORENCE BUYSSE

WHITMAN VISITS SING SING PRISON FOR INSPECTION

But Governor Not to Mix in Quarrel of Osborne and Riley Is Declaration.

ALBANY, July 7.—Gov. Whitman, accompanied by his secretary, William Orr, motored to Sing Sing to-day to inspect the prison. At the Executive Chamber it was stated positively that the visit of the Governor to the prison had no connection whatever with the controversy between Warden Osborne and Superintendent of Prisons Riley. It was said that the Governor was merely fulfilling a promise made to Warden Osborne to pay a friendly visit to Sing Sing and learn at first hand the results of the "golden rule" policy.

Explaining the difference between Warden Osborne and himself, State Prison Superintendent Riley to-day passed the matter along to Sing Sing's millionaire official, "Mr. Osborne has said he's going to fight it," declared the Superintendent, "but he can't fight with me."

Riley charges Osborne with continual disobedience of his orders, but denies the latter's resignation has been requested. The drafts of prisoners, which the Warden is said to have questioned, were cancelled, according to Riley, by "the most barbarous custom of doubling up men" at Sing Sing.

The Superintendent claims that reforms at the prison generally were instituted by himself long before Osborne's appointment.

OSBORNE, July 7.—"I am too busy with the work in hand here to engage in any controversy with Prison Superintendent Riley," said Warden Thomas M. Osborne to-day when asked for a reply to the charges of insubordination made against him by the State prison head.

"Superintendent Riley is entirely within his authority in giving out any statements or making any criticisms he sees fit. I shall make no reply, but the record of what has been accomplished at Sing Sing and when it was accomplished is an open one, available to any citizen of the State who cares to investigate."

Warden Osborne declined to comment on the charges that he had doubled up prisoners, placing two in a cell, but intimated that an adequate explanation of this charge by Supt. Riley would be made whenever called for.

FRANKENTHAL, Bavaria, via London, July 7.—Jean Ganas, factory director, Commercial Councillor and former Associate Judge of the Commercial Court, has been fined 250,000 marks ($62,750) for making false returns in connection with the levying of the armament tax. The fine amounts to twenty times the sum of which the Government contends it was defrauded.

Nostrils Clogged? Dropping in Throat? Going Deaf?

Are You Being Fooled?

The drug stores used to fool the people by charging five prices for their medicines. Then came the cut-rate drug stores. What happened? First, the high-priced druggists persuaded the people that the cut-rate stores sold inferior drugs.

Time showed that the cut-rate drug stores sold just as good medicines as the others and at a much lower price.

It was not long before the cut-rate drug stores were doing the bulk of the business. They charged less than the other druggists and they advertised. This is how they let the people know what they were doing.

When I placed my fees low and advertised the fact, it became the custom of other doctors to say all the mean things they could about my practice and warn people against being treated by me. The people soon found that my results were at least as good as the other specialists and that my fees were about one-third what the high-priced specialists charged.

The great number of people I treat makes it possible for me to make a small profit on my practice. I am perfectly satisfied with this small profit at this time, when every dollar must be made to serve the purpose that two dollars served before the great war began.

My specialty is treating chronic catarrh, running throat trouble, deafness and head aches. I have spent thirty years in practice and know to the very way to do this. I can usually get the nostrils without cutting away the bone in the nose, thus leaving in the nostrils those important structures that were created by nature to shut out germs from the air.

How important is my method of treatment will be shown in the case of Mr. Latham and Mr. Allen.

Mr. Carl Latham lives at 142 East 86th Street, New York. When he first consulted me he had had trouble with my ears for ten years. My hearing got so bad I could not hear a word he said to me. I could not hear my watch tick when I put it near my ear. I was treated by several ear doctors, but they could not help me. Since treating Mr. Latham he reports he has heard as well as he ever heard conversation readily. The noise has all left his ears. He can now hear his watch tick when held some distance from his head.

Clogged Nostrils, Dropping in Throat, Deafness and Head Noises

Mr. Robert Allen resides at No. 316 Third Avenue, New York. When he first consulted me he had had trouble with my ears for twenty years. My nostrils have been clogged for twenty years. I could only sleep a little while at a time. For my clogged nostrils would wake me up every night. I would drop back into my throat. My hearing was so bad I could not hear a word he said to me. I was treated by several ear doctors, but they could not help me. Since treating Mr. Allen he reports he has heard as well as he ever heard conversation readily. The noise has all left his ears. He can now hear his watch tick when held some distance from his head.

If you need the services of a specialist I will be pleased to have you visit my office. It will cost you nothing for an examination and advice.
